

Sonya May Calvin

Sonya May Calvin is a dedicated community leader, educator, and entrepreneur whose life reflects faith, service, and excellence. A Spelman College graduate with a background in physics and a passion for mathematics, she began her career as an Engineer Trainee with Georgia Power and later served as a Computer Services Specialist with Williams, Russell & Johnson, Inc. As Special Projects Coordinator at Antioch Baptist Church North, her passion for helping others was deeply nurtured and expressed through service.

Currently, Sonya serves as Executive Director of the Dublin-Laurens County Land Bank, leading efforts to eliminate blight and revitalize neighborhoods. She also teaches part-time at the local technical college, where she helps students earn their GEDs and pursue brighter futures.

An entrepreneur at heart, Sonya founded Momma Ruth's Tea, Inc., inspired by her grandmother Ruth May's beloved Southern tea recipe. A proud member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., she continues to exemplify sisterhood, scholarship, and service in all that she does.

A native of Dublin, Georgia, and the daughter of Leon and Rosetta May, Sonya lives by the principles they instilled—treat others well, trust God, and never stop striving. She is the proud mother of two wonderful children.
